COURSE DESCRIPTION

The course comes back to the definitions of sustainability and sustainable tourism development. It enhances its emergence since the end of the XXth century, presents the adaptation of the tourism offers, but also the innovative models studying their forces, ambiguities and limits. It questions the capacity of universalism of the western paradigm.

1. The context of the creation of the concept: democratisation and massification of tourism
2. The sustainable tourism revolution. A transformation of the relation between tourism, environment, economy and society
3. Answers of the tourism actors: creation of new products, in adequation with the desire of a « return to nature »
4. Adaptation of the equipment: creation of resorts of 4th generation and « Arcadie » Post (comptoir)
5. Adaptation of the products already existing: the Quest for Labels

OBJECTIVES

Understanding the stakes of sustainable tourism, and the complexity to conciliate economy, societies and environment into the diversity of world. Analysing prejudices.
